The Winter 2018-2019 IAM Journal will be hitting the doorsteps of IAM members by early November. Here's a first look at one of several articles in this edition.

A WOODWORKER'S LEGACY

In the spirit of IAM's next Journal and "A Culture of Service" you will find the story "Sustaining a Legacy" about Woodworkers Local Lodge W130 President Jon Irvine and his supporting relationship with Scaler Trainee and friend, 21 year old Daniel Solanka. Two years ago Daniel's Dad and W130 logging crew member, Duane Solanka, was unexpectedly killed in a motorcycle accident. Jon's role as the lodge's Secretary-Treasurer brought him and Daniel together. This story is a heartfelt example of true unionism, "Being a union is more than just having a collective bargaining agreement and on-thejob protections. Being union is a family. We are stronger together than we are apart."

IP Martinez spoke directly about recent layoffs at Red River Army Depot. He assured delegates that the Machinists Union will continue to do everything it can to assist the nearly 1000 members of LL 1243 affected by these layoff in Texarkana, TX. In response, the IAM has been mobilizing politicians locally and on Capitol Hill, as well as amplified the voices of families dealing with the aftermath in the press. IAM staff has been on the ground to hold job search training and all IAM resources remain ready to fight any future layoffs here or anywhere.

Martinez also congratulated and praised the District for recent organizing victory at VSC in Local Lodge 463. He encouraged all the delegates to stay in IAM's fight and to continue aligning themselves with the new initiatives that the IP has in place for our Union. That is, spending that places the membership first, organizing for the future and 'getting out the vote'!

GOOD NEIGHBOR AUTHORITY TURNING THE CORNER

The 2018 Fire Season is serving as another reminder of the growing need to thin our forests, and reduce the buildup of woody debris and other forest fuels. While there is broad agreement of the need to do this work, the process to plan and implement a project on federal lands is often a difficult and challenging process. Due to declining budgets, our federal partners lack the necessary staff capacity to accomplish this valuable work.

With the advent of a new authority allowing the state of Oregon to lend a much needed helping hand, we look to be turning the corner.

In 2013, the Oregon legislature took an innovative, proactive step to fund the Federal Forest Restoration Program at the Oregon Department of Forestry (ODF). This established base capacity within ODF, allowing the state to engage and increase the pace and scale of restoration on federal lands in Oregon. Then in 2014, Congress authorized the Good Neighbor Authority (GNA), a mechanism which allows state resources to be used for planning and implementation of forest management on federal lands via federal dollars. This authority will be a key driver towards healthier, more resilient forests in Oregon.

In June of 2018, ODF awarded Oregon's first GNA timber sale - Paddock Butte - on the Fremont-Winema National Forest in Klamath County. Under GNA, ODF plans and manages each timber sale from start to finish – calculating the amount of harvestable timber, conducting the sale layout, and administering the timber sale. All costs to the state agency are recovered directly from the revenue generated from the timber sale.

At the current pace, ODF is on track to offer six additional timber sales across the state by the end of June, 2019. As shown in the table below, ODF currently has GNA timber sales in the pipeline on multiple National Forests in Oregon. In total, ODF estimates these sales will produce an additional 15 million board feet (mmbf) of timber volume, which would otherwise remain as a fuel risk on the landscape. This solution supports jobs in the forest sector, contributes to local economies, and begins reverse the trend on fire risk in our forests.

Sale Name	National Forest	County	Volume (mmbf)	Sale Date
Paddock Butte	Fremont-Winema	Klamath	2.2	May 2018
